ing at Sec. The Secretary of the Treasury received offers from large from the New York for the purchase of Fen Forty Reads in large lots. He has clearly not be present, then for the present, through it is quite certain that should be continued to issue the Eventy or twenty-one milthough it is quite certain that should me concitation is some the twenty of twenty-one fulllions which still remain unissued, under the act of warch, 186t, he would find for them a prompt sale at full prices.

It is said the use of postage stamps is to be absouraged by the Department, which will issees in future only stamped on velopes. Those will be issued of all sizes and of all rates of postage, and, to encourage their general use, they will be sent to any address, which three hundres are ordered, with the printed notification on the back to return to the writer if not called for at a specified time. This termilling, also, will be done free of postage. A hig steal summer bore in the survelope scheme.

The officials in the Treasury Department are expecting an assault on the National Banking system when Congress gets fairly sit work on the duties of the session. There is some talk although them that the banks used as depositioattracks.
